

Bromley L. Armstrong Award

THE AWARD RECOGNIZES THE DEDICATION AND CONTRIBUTIONS THAT DEMONSTRATE OUTSTANDING COMMITMENT AND LEADERSHIP TO PERSONS THAT FOUGHT AND PROPAGATE THE RIGHTS OF LABOUR AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

The Toronto & York Region Labour Council has established this prestigious award in 2004 to commemorate the courage, dedication and outstanding service of Bromley L. Armstrong to the Labour and Human Rights Movement in Canada.

This award is presented to members of the Affiliated Locals of the Toronto & York Region Labour Council who have demonstrated excellence in some area of Labour Equity and Human Rights. This award will be presented on a yearly basis as the nominations will be based on activities and contributions during the previous year.

Eligibility

Members of the Affiliated Locals of the Toronto & York Region Labour Council. The nominations must recognize and outline the activities and contributions that meet or exceed the selected criteria (see nomination form). The award may be presented to recognize continuous service or a particular significant highlighted event in the labour movement. The nomination should include two references, and it would be beneficial to have the endorsement of the affiliated local union. All Nomination forms must be sent to the Toronto & York Region Labour Council.

The selection will be done by the Equity Committee as per the selection criteria and the recommendations will be given approval by the Executive Committee. The Equity Committee will consult with individual or unions to clarify any information or misunderstanding.

Selection Criteria

- A person who has made a contribution to labour equity and human rights.
- A person who exemplifies the spirit, dedication and ideas of the labour movement.
